COMMITTEE DELIBERATIONS AND OBSERVATIONS

6. At a meeting held on November 25, 2010, the Committee orally interviewed all the nine nominees.
7. In conducting the vetting process, the Committee examined the candidates against the criteria set out in the Second Schedule of the Commission for the Implementation of Constitution Act, 2010 (Criteria for vetting/approval of nominees for appointment to public office by the National Assembly). That criteria requires the nominees to disclose information on their personal and professional life including their political affiliations, tax compliance and potential conflict of interests.

8. At the conclusion of the vetting exercise, the Committee made the following observations on the nominees:-
- i) Mr. Charles Ayako Nyachae: A holder of a Master of Laws (LLM) degree from the London School of Economics, the nominee for Chairperson is academically and professionally qualified for the position. He is an attorney of repute with considerable experience spanning 25 years with proven service to justice and the rule of law. Mr. Nyachae and has also been actively involved with civil society reform-related activities, including serving as chairman of the International Commission of Jurists (ICJ) (1991-1993) and the Institute of Education in Democracy (1999-2003). He also served a three-year stint as a member of the Law Reform Commission (LRC) between 2003 and 2006. His moral standing has not been called into question, nor can he be said to hold any known partisan political persuasions.
  - ii) Prof. Peter Wanyande: A Professor of political sciences from the University of Nairobi, Prof. Wanyande is a long-serving Associate Professor at the University of Nairobi where he currently teaches in the department of Political Science. The Committee found the nominee qualified on the basic evaluation grounds of academic qualification, professional competence, moral probity and apparent capacity for non-partisanship. He possesses impressive credentials as a champion for reform, democracy, the rule of law and civil liberties.
  - iii) Dr. Ibrahim M. Ali: Dr. Ali holds a Ph. D in Chemistry from the University of East Anglia, Norwich, UK. He has vast experience in the field of environmental research, where he is a pioneer, and has similarly impressive credentials in community service and philanthropic work. The committee found this nominee qualified on the required grounds of academic and professional competence, moral probity and political non-partisanship.

- iv) Dr. Elizabeth Muli: The nominee holds a Ph.D in Law from Stanford University Law School, and currently teaches law at the University of Nairobi where she also chairs the Department of Commercial Law. Between 1995 and 1998 she served as a State Counsel in the State Law Office's Department of Treaties and Agreements. The Committee found Dr. Muli duly qualified on the basic evaluation grounds of academic qualification, professional competence, moral probity and apparent political non-partisanship.
- v) Dr. Florence Y.B.N. Omosa: Dr. Omosa holds a Ph.D in Decision Science from the London School of Economics and is a distinguished consultant and advisor in the field of decision making and Institution development. She currently works as a Consultant Advisor for Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA), and has previously served IGAD and USAID/ASARECA, among others, as a consultant. Dr. Omosa projects a strong, strict personality and appears to be a stickler for deadlines and discipline. The Committee found her qualified on the basic evaluation grounds of academic and professional competence, moral probity and had no apparent political affiliations.
- vi) Ms Catherine Mumma: Ms Mumma is a holder of Master of Laws (LLM) degree from the University of London, and is a distinguished expert on human rights, governance and gender. She has previously served as a State Counsel (1995-2003), Commissioner on the Kenya National Commission on Human Rights (2003-2006), and a Commissioner on the Independent Review Commission on the 2007 Elections (IREC) (the Kriegler Commission - 2008). She currently undertakes consultancy services for diverse clients, including the Ministry of Justice and Constitutional Affairs, Ministry of Gender and the KNCHR. On the evaluation grounds of academic and professional competence, moral probity and capacity for political non-partisanship, the committee found the nominee qualified.

DISCLOSURE: The committee, nonetheless, wishes to bring to the attention of the House some allegation that was brought to its attention in the course of vetting Ms Mumma. Indeed Ms Mumma, to her credit, had already volunteered information on the same matter on her own volition right at the commencement of her vetting, subsequent to which the committee received documentation regarding the same.

The matter, which is now subject of civil litigation, arose from a report of the Efficiency Monitoring Unit (EMU) which had questioned some allowances paid to officers, including the nominee, when they served a task force established in 2000 by the National Aids Control Council (NACC) to develop the law on HIV/Aids. Ms Mumma served as Joint Secretary to the Task Force on secondment from the State Law Office.

The committee considered this matter at length, and even invited the nominee back for further clarification. In doing this, the committee inquired into whether this matter raised a question of integrity in the terms of Chapter Six of the Constitution that speaks to the subject of leadership and integrity. The committee also inquired into the potential of this matter raising conflict of interest, especially in the event that the pending civil litigation is concluded against the nominee. It was the considered opinion of the committee that this matter did not raise any question of integrity on the character of Ms Mumma for the following reasons:

1. The issue in question was never whether she had made any false or fraudulent claim, rather it was the misunderstanding between the National Aids Control Council (NACC) and the Directorate of Personnel Management (DPM) as to whether Ms Mumma and the other officers should have been paid a daily or a sitting allowance. The officers had been aware from the onset that they were to be paid a daily allowance, and the misunderstanding between the two agencies is a matter that arose after the fact and which the officers, including Ms Mumma, were not party to;

2. The pending litigation is a civil matter and not criminal proceedings, seeking to recover perceived payments made in excess of what is alleged to have been due (Kshs 903,000). However, the allegations are based not on the conduct of the nominee but on the administrative incompetence between NACC and DPM, including inconclusive record keeping of schedules and memos. A similar suit filed against the then Chairman of NACC has since been dismissed, in favor of the defendant.
3. The nominee was emphatic that her character was beyond reproach and that she should not be held accountable for confusion and actions others. She held that she had served for the 180 days paid for, and would have been ready to refund the funds if there had been any irregularity, which she maintained there was none. She however did indicate that should the civil suit find that she should refund the monies, she would so, but was firm in her conviction that this would not, by any stretch of imagination amount to "conflict of interest" or a "question of integrity".

The on the balance of the information availed to it and the subsequent deliberations against the foregoing background, the committee was satisfied that this matter did not in any material way call into question the integrity and credibility of Ms Catherine Mumma.

- vii) Mr. Kamotho Waiganjo: Mr. Waiganjo holds of Master of Laws (LLM) degree in International Trade and Investment Law from the University of Nairobi. Currently a part-time lecture at the Kenya of Law and a Partner in the law firm of Kamotho, Maiyo and Mbatia Advocates, he has been involved in human rights work and also runs a weekly column for a national daily newspaper. The Committee found the nominee qualified on the basic evaluation grounds of academic and professional competence, moral probity political non-partisanship.

- viii) Mr. Philemon Mwaisaka Wawaka: The nominee holds a Bachelor of Arts (BA) degree in Government and Sociology from the University of Nairobi, and boasts of a long public service record, including as Permanent Secretary in the Ministries Agriculture, Health, Transport, Tourism, Supplies and Marketing, among others. The Committee found the nominee qualified on the basic evaluation grounds of academic and professional competence and moral probity. Although he contested a parliamentary seat in 2007, he appears capable of political balance.
- ix) Mr. Kibaya Imaana Laibuta: Mr. Laibuta holds a Master of Laws (LLM) degree from the London School of Economics, and is currently in private legal practice (Managing Partner, Laibuta, Kamau & Co. Advocates) as well as a law lecturer at the Kenya Polytechnic University College (UoN). He is a chartered arbitrator who has done work in the Human rights sector especially on matters of disability. Besides finding Mr. Laibuta qualified on the basic evaluation grounds of academic and professional competence, moral probity and political non-partisanship, the committee also took special note of this nominee's distinguished achievements notwithstanding that he is visually challenged.

Mrs. Muma appeared before the Committee for a second time to clarify issues relating to a case against her. The nominee explained in detail the background of the case which related to her tenure as a joint secretary of a legal taskforce to develop the HIV Bill at the National Aids Control Council. A report by the Efficiency Monitoring Unit alleges that she received money for days that she never worked. She explained that the matter to be determined was whether or not she was entitled to payment per day or per sitting, and does not touch on her integrity.

The Committee considered the matter and was satisfied that the matter was not material since it did not touch on the integrity of the nominee.
